Moose hunters might be headed this way

By ALISON ALOISIO

Moose hunters might be pursuing their quarry in the Bethel area next fall, if the state approves a proposed new hunting zone.

The growing moose herd and concerns about the number of moose collisions have prompted wildlife officials to consider adding the zone. It would extend from Route 16 near Rangeley south through the Rumford and Bethel areas, ending near Norway.

"Hunters have been requesting it for many years," said Stanley Milton of Andover, Oxford County's representative on the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife's advisory council. "The herd has grown substantially in the last five years or so."

- Proposal calls for expanding 1997 moose hunt to this area
- Hearing tonight in Augusta

The council will meet with Commissioner Ray Owen Dec. 5 to decide the issue. A public hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight (Nov. 20) at the Augusta County Civic Center.

The week-long October hunt has been held annually since 1980. Each year 1,500 permits have been issued to hunters, whose names are drawn in a lottery. Hunting has been spread over six zones, which roughly encompass the northern half of the state.

If approved, 80 permits would be issued for the new zone, with that number subtracted from the other zones.

Some members of the general public have also asked that a southern zone be added, because of the danger moose pose to motorists, said Andrea Erskine, IFW regulations officer.

But, she said, there is bound to be some opposition to the hunt from people who enjoy watching moose along the roadside.

"When we (IFW) had a booth at the Eastern States Exposition (in Springfield, Mass.) this year, opinion was about 50/50 on it," she said.

Game warden Rick Mills of Andover, who has patrolled the region north of Route 2 for years, said he favors extending the hunting zone.

"I think the locals will accept it

Ski train set to run again

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Sunday River ski train will return to Bethel Station this winter, but under new management.

The original ski train, the Sunday River Silver Bullet, ran for three seasons but was sold earlier this fall. Sunday River officials said low ridership made the seasonal Portland to Bethel service too costly to continue.

At the time the sale was made public, they also promised to attempt to find some replacement for the train. Last week they announced an agreement to have the Bethel Mountain Line operate a ski train this winter.

Bethel Mountain Line is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Belfast and Moosehead Lake Railroad, which currently operates a 10-car summer tourist train along most of Maine, serving 15,000 riders a year. The Swedish-made cars have not been used during the winter, and Rod Rodrigue, president of Belfast and Moosehead Lake, said that since the cars pay for themselves in the summer, he thinks his company can make a profit by adding the ski run.

The new ski train is scheduled to begin service on Dec. 21, running Fridays and weekends until Easter, with daily service during school vacations and select holiday periods. Planned stops between Portland and Bethel include Yarmouth and Auburn.

Les Otten, chairman of American Skiing Company, said he hoped new service would help to boost the ski-train ridership. "For the fourth consecutive year, Sunday

Gould hockey team reached new heights this season

By SCOTT JEROME

Posting an 8-0 MAISAD record, Gould Academy's field hockey team earned a berth in the New England Prep School Class C Tournament and played all the way to the finals Sunday.

Ranked number eight out of eight teams seeded, Gould began its wild run to the finals by playing number-one Holderness School at Holderness last Wednesday.

The Huskies' fans showed their strong support, as more Gould fans poured out of cars, buses, and vans than out of Holderness dormitories and classrooms.

Captain Meredith Mason scored for Gould in the first half, but her goal was answered by Holderness in the second. Two 15-minute "sudden victory" overtime periods produced no winner, so the girls lined up for penalty strokes.

One shot after another were stopped by the goalies, until the fifth stroke, Marcy LaVallee blasted a shot home. The Huskies had upset the number-one team.

Gould goalie Kate Graham stopped 17 shots in the marathon game.

"The Holderness game was by far the best game," said coach Sue Gardner. "The schools are old rivals and it was especially exciting to beat the top seeded team."

The girls barely had time to catch their breath when they loaded a bus Friday night and headed south to Pomfret, Conn., to play number-five Bancroft School in the semifinals. Once again, Gould's fans far outnumbered those of the opponent.

The evenly matched game remained scoreless until 12 minutes into the second half when Mason scored what would become the game-winning shot. Graham stopped nine shots in goal.

On Sunday, the Huskies squared off against number-six Berkshire School in the finals. The game remained scoreless throughout both halves which sent the championship into sudden victory overtime.

With 6:58 remaining in the period, Berkshire scored and the game was over.

The stats suggest how close a game it was: Graham made four saves while Berkshire's goalie stopped five and each team made eight shots on goal.

Despite their disappointment, the Husky players realized what a

Bethel people on-line

They're wired, but what are they doing out there?

By MICHAEL DANIELS

It's been more than a year and a half now since Bethel area residents were offered low-cost access to the Internet, and while most homes here still have not taken the plunge, a growing number of local computer users are becoming Internet veterans.

The non-profit Bethel Data Corporation (BDC) has more than 100 subscribers and the number is growing (especially now, with winter and cabin-fever season closing in). Other local homes subscribe to commercial on-line services and Internet access providers.

The new technology is making it possible for users to reach out and do things that would have been, if not impossible, at least impractical only a very short time ago.

We thought it would be interesting to our readers to learn what their neighbors are up to in cyberspace, so we sent out an e-mail to a few local "early adapters," and here -- mostly in their own e-words -- is what they report.

At work

Some users have found the Internet a big help on the job. "E-mail is what we use the most," reports potter Garrett Bonnema. "We are members of the Claytars list-serve and receive between 40-60 messages a day. Being a little isolated from other potters here in western Maine, having a network of over 2,000 ceramicists to exchange information and ideas with has been good. I have been able to attend workshops I would otherwise not have known about. I also read about a glaze calculation program, which I ordered, and now use regularly. Many of the potters on the list ask for info on people to visit when traveling in a certain area." (Listserve are electronic mailing lists.)

Sunday River Ski Resort engineer Joe Aloisio uses his computer at work to stay on top of technical changes -- and to help reduce paperwork. "I have found the Internet connection to be a valuable tool," he reports.

"I use the Net in the office to keep up-to-date on state regula-

Locals who need a degree are turning to ITV

By ALISON ALOISIO

While the Internet has taken center stage in Bethel communications technology, Interactive Television has continued to quietly provide classes that are the backbone of college degree programs for many area students.

Since 1988, 300 students have taken courses through the University of Maine ITV system, which is operated locally by SAD44's Adult Education department.

The students' backgrounds and needs vary widely. Some have taken classes to supplement their knowledge in a current job. Others are studying in preparation for a career change. Young adults have also used the ITV offerings as a stepping stone to eventually study at a college campus.

All the students can look forward to more options as the number of offerings increases.

"This fall a Master's in Business Administration will be available. It's been a much-requested program," said Adult Ed director Cathy Newell.

Students can work toward associate's, bachelor's and master's degrees in a variety of areas. Included are, for example, law enforcement, nursing, education and library and information technology.

Boil order continues

ANDOVER--A boil order for Andover Water District users has been extended indefinitely, by order of the Department of Human Services. Consumers are directed to boil water for at least five minutes before drinking, making ice cubes, washing foods, brushing teeth or other activity requiring human consumption. The boil order was first put in place in late October because of an unstable turbidity level and the possibility of unsafe water. The order will remain in effect until further notice.

MEA scoring error

BETHEL--A statewide calculation error on last year's fourth- and eleventh-grade Maine Educational Assessment test score had no effect on individual scores of SAD44 students, according to Crescent Park Elementary School principal David Murphy. The error, made by Advanced Systems in Evaluation and Measurement, Inc., of New Hampshire, affected only aggregate scores. Murphy said SAD44 average scores could change in some subject areas. Relatively high or low scores would be affected most dramatically, he said, while scores in the middle ranges would likely remain about the same. The corrected scores have not yet been received.

Board to look at small budget increase

BETHEL--The SAD44 School Board's Finance Committee last week recommended that the board ask administrators to prepare an FY'98 budget that would not exceed this year's $7-million budget by more than 2.5 percent. The committee made the recommendation, chairman Wendie Gray said, after consulting with school and community representatives. The impact of such an increase on taxes in district towns is unknown at this time. Gray said improvements and upgrades are needed in the areas of curriculum, alternative and basic education, the arts, and physical plant. Last year's budget showed an increase of 1.54 percent over the previous year's, and passed by referendum on the first vote.

Seniors' Thanksgiving dinner Sunday

BETHEL--The annual Thanksgiving dinner for area senior citizens will take place Sunday, Nov. 24 at the Telstar High School cafeteria. The event, sponsored by the National Honor Society, will also feature door prizes and entertainment.

Don't spend it all in one place, Bethel

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Payments intended to offset the loss of tax revenue to states and localities caused by the presence of tax-exempt federal land within local government boundaries have been sent to two area towns. Bethel received $5 for FY'96, while Gilead received $737. Oxford County was paid $17,887.

Crank-phone stories

BRYAND POND--"Everything Happened Around the Switchboard," by Michael R. Hathaway of Madison, N.H., has been selected as one of the products to be offered in the next edition of "Old Telephones," published by Phonoco, Inc., of Galesville, Wis. The book is the story of his parents' telephone company in Bryant Pond, which eventually became the last hand-crank magneto system in America, before succumbing to dial in 1983. Phonoco has 50 employees who rebuild antique and modern phones. They ship to stores and individuals throughout the world who enjoy the nostalgia of old phones. Locally, the book is available at Books 'n Things in Bethel and Norway, and Wonderland Bookstore in Gorham, N.H.

Road closures in WMNF

GORHAM, N.H.--Vehicular traffic will not be permitted on the following roads during deer hunting season this year. Ellsworth Road (Forest Road 215), Pemi East Side Road (Forest Road 87), Walker Brook Road (Forest Road 29), Hazelton Brook Road (Forest Road 23), West Branch Road (Forest Road 378). These roads have received resource damage from vehicle use during rainy and snowy weather in previous years. Funding to correct drainage patterns and to grade roads has decreased, and the Forest Service is not able to adequately repair and maintain the roads if damage occurs this year. Erosion and soil loss as well as sedimentation into streams can occur if roads are not adequately protected. Other roads, such as Tripoli Road (FR 30) and North-South Road (FR 19), which are normally open for traffic will remain open until weather and vehicular use are not compatible. The roads will be closed once the potential for road surface damage is apparent and/or snow and ice cover the road surface.

Wardens to investigate dog shooting

HARRISON--The Maine Warden Service was expected to investigate a report of a dog shot last week near its owner's home in Harrison. Ivan Lippincott believes an unidentified hunter shot his 80-pound Irish setter-black Lab-mix. His wife, Debra, came home from work last Wednesday and let their two dogs out into the wooded back yard on Route 117. Minutes later she heard a gunshot at very close range. The dog came back to the house, bleeding from the shoulder. It was later treated by a vet and was expected to survive. State law prohibits hunters from shooting within 300 feet of a residence.

Cooper spring re-opens

PARIS--Construction work on Cooper Spring has been completed for this fall and the water test approved, according to office manager Jane Heikkinen of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. The Safe Drinking Act requires regular testing of public drinking water, which will be done on a regular basis by the Conservation District, for the health and protection of all who use the resource. Users are asked to help keep the Cooper Spring site free of debris. If there is a concern or a need for more information about the spring, call the Oxford County SWCD at 743-7019 or write to 1 Main Street, South Paris, ME 04281.

Oxford County eligible for flood aid

PORTLAND--The Clinton administration has issued a disaster declaration for Oxford County, making it the third county in Maine to qualify for federal help in recovering from last month's flood damage, the state's congressional delegation said Friday. The approval opens the door for homeowners, businesses and local governments in Oxford County to apply for federal loans and grants. A similar declaration was previously issued for York and Cumberland counties. "This federal aid will help Oxford County communities rebuild the roads and bridges damaged by the storm, and help residents and businesses in these counties to regain their economic footing and recover from this natural disaster," the delegation said in a statement. Clinton asked the Federal Emergency Management Agency and other federal agencies to work with state officials to provide the federal assistance.

Technical college enrollment up

AUGUSTA--Enrollment at Maine's technical colleges grew by 8 percent this fall over last year, according to Maine Technical College System officials. The increase was primarily due to more part-time students. Part-time enrollment grew by 19 percent, while full-time enrollment rose by three percent. The overall enrollment at Central Maine Technical College in Auburn grew six percent over last year.

Mother shot in leg

LIMERICK--York County sheriff's deputies were investigating whether a 2 1/2-year-old boy shot his mother in the leg Friday. Michelle Lucier, 27, was shot in the knee inside her mobile home early Friday. She was listed in satisfactory condition at Maine Medical Center following surgery later Friday morning. The sheriff's department said a 30-30 rifle was fired once indoors and that Lucier was hit in the knee. Officials were not certain if anyone besides Lucier and her son were in the mobile home at the time.

From the Bethel Police log:

Police check for possible night hunters

At 8:25 p.m. on Nov. 17 police received a call from the Sheriff's Office requesting an officer go to a residence for the state police in reference to possible night hunting. When the officer arrived, the resident said a vehicle had left. He said it was in the field behind his house, then left the field, and drove by the house three or four times, slowing every time it came to the entry way of the field. No contact was made.

Wednesday, Nov. 13

At 10 a.m. a West Bethel resident reported a subject had stolen his welder from another West Bethel residence, because the complainant owed the subject money. The complainant went to the residence and got the welder back. The subject was advised not to handle the matter in that way.

At 11:15 a.m. the Bethel Irving/Mainway manager reported two Telstar High School students had walked out of the store without paying for food. Police spoke to the students, who said they went to Dunkin Donuts and ate their lunch. The officer had them return to the store and pay for the food they had. The students said the manager told them he did not want them back in the store again.

At 8:32 p.m. an Oxford County Sheriff's Deputy requested police respond to Viking Village at Sunday River Ski Resort for a reported break-in in progress. The deputy arrived while the officer was still searching for the residence. The officer returned to the town line and stood by until the deputy reported all was secure.

Thursday, Nov. 14

At 1:30 a.m. a Bethel Irving/Mainway employee reported that a trucker had come into the store reporting a dead bear in the road on Route 2, approximately one mile east of the store. The officer located the animal, which had been struck several times prior to his arrival. The animal was moved off the road and the Warden Service advised to pick it up.

Saturday, Nov. 16

At 12:35 a.m. a caller reported a party at the Bethel Park Apartments. Police met with a resident, who said a group of subjects had departed his residence, and they were quite loud. He was advised further complaints would result in a summons.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

County Republicans meet

Nearly 50 Oxford County Republicans met on Nov. 12 at the North Waterford Congregational Church for a delicious Victory '96 New England boiled dinner served by the church.

Following the dinner, chairman Stan Howe reviewed the election results, both locally and nationally. All things considered, Howe observed, especially with the heavy union spending against Republican candidates, the party did reasonably well.

He expressed regrets that the party lost three races in the county, but at least one was subject to a recount and the others were competitive.

Nationally, despite the loss of the presidency, gains were recorded in the U.S. Senate, the number of Republican governors stayed the same, and in the final analysis when all the votes are counted the House may have nearly as many Republicans as were elected in 1994. A number of legislative seats were lost throughout the nation and several houses changed hands, but considering the strength of Clinton's victory, Republicans did very well when all that was against them was considered, Howe said he looked forward to 1998, because generally the party not controlling the White House makes gain in the off year.

On the positive side, Howe pointed out that all incumbents in Oxford County were re-elected, some by good margins. He also expressed pleasure that Rick Bennett had done so well in his race to succeed Dana Hanley in the state Senate.

A number of victors were present and spoke briefly, including Sen. Norman K. Ferguson (R-Hanover), Rep. Tom Winsor (R-Norway), Rep. Al Barth (R-Bethel), County Commissioner Steve Merrill, and Register of Probate Ted Tracy. All thanked the committee for its financial and headquarters support. Leon Truman, on behalf of his wife Freda, thanked the committee for all its support in her race for County Treasurer, and Mike Tracy expressed her gratitude to the committee for its support in her close race for a House seat.

Dan Demeritt, political director in the Susan Collins campaign, was thanked the committee for its strong support of Susan in her effort to succeed Bill Cohen. Chairman Howe, who also headed Collins' campaign in Oxford County, expressed pleasure she carried Oxford County and thanked all those who made this victory possible.

Internet

tions. It has actually allowed us to drop our subscription to an updating service."

Don Bennett, a Bethel consultant, uses the long reach of the Internet to service his customers here while he winters in Florida.

For example, he is able to electronically transfer, "complete, large data files from a user who needs help and then return them via e-mail. The file is an attachment. It works well, and the test comes while I am in Florida from December to April."

Buzz Gamble is among those who have found the Internet to be not a luxury, but an increasingly essential tool for doing his job.

An agriculture and natural resources educator for the Maine Department of Education, Gamble uses the Internet for writing grants collaboratively, downloading technical update information, obtaining environmental information from newsgroups, conferences and listservs, participating in discussion groups, transmitting or receiving graphics and articles for newsletters and using e-mail distribution lists to broadcast to different organizations, and for downloading programs to increase productivity at schools around the state.

At play

Of course its not all work and no play on the Internet, and the play is far more than mindless Web surfing or blast-em-to-bloody-bits games.

For example, hobbyists of all sorts now have their own listservs bulletin boards and newsgroups, where even the most isolated enthusiasts can communicate with their fellows around the world.

Lorrie Hoch reports: "I've posted my name on a spinners' bulletin board and have acquired pen-pals in Melbourne, Australia; Vancouver, B.C.; and South Portland. It's been fun corresponding with them and exchanging ideas about spinning and fibers, as well as getting to know each other. For a while I subscribed to the Fiber-net-Digest, but finally unsubscribed because I couldn't keep up with the reading!"

Aloisio and his family also put his home computer to good use. "At home I can communicate with others with similar interests. I could not find a part for my 1966 Mustang and asked for help from a club up in Prince Edward Island. I received the help and now have the part as well as an invitation to visit PEI."

"We have also used the Net to help plan our vacation. More and more cities are creating home pages, and from there you can find hotels, camping areas, ticket prices, and more. I have found that many professional teams have home pages, many of which show ticket availability."

Keeping in touch

For many Internet users, e-mail has replaced the telephone as the instrument of choice for keeping in touch with distant friends and loved ones. Cyberspace is even proving to be surprisingly fertile ground for an endangered art of the past -- letter writing.

"I keep in touch by e-mail with friends and relatives all over the country. It's fast, cheap, and fun," Hoch reports.

Bonnema writes: "The e-mail has helped us stay in touch with our daughter when she was visiting in Hungary and for the last year and a half as she is going to college in Canada. It is very convenient to be able to leave a message, at almost no cost, when time zones and personal schedules are very different."

Jonathan Goldberg agrees. "I have never kept better in touch with my family both immediate and extended than when we started sending e-mail. It has spawned a resurgence in its own way of the art of letter writing, and it is a lot cheaper than the phone."

"An interesting project that was helped by our Internet connection was when Kathy decided to compile a family memoir of growing up at her grandfather's summer cottage on a lake in Michigan. The request for stories went out in the old-fashioned way, but responses came in via the mail, phone, fax and e-mail. When the raw text was entered we e-mailed it all to a cousin in California with the facilities to lay the book out and print it up. A simple project by publishing standards, but an immensely meaningful one for the family."

Find it fast

Information is what the Internet is all about, information from around the world, or information about what's going on just down the road.

You can quickly find out what's playing at the Casablanca in Bethel (assuming you lost your copy of The Citizen). You can check the snow conditions at Sunday River or the local weather forecast.

But you can just as easily check out what's playing this weekend in San Francisco, what the ski conditions and weather forecast for any major ski area in the world.

And the information on the Internet can help you find items (real as well as virtual) anywhere in the world. The Internet is a catalogue of the hard-to-find, obscure, and even obsolete.

One example: "Elaine and I have had Accutron watches since they were all the rage in the early '70s," reports Dutch Dresser. "Bulova stopped making them some time ago, and, particularly early, stopped making parts for the watch Elaine has. Recently Elaine's watch stopped. The jeweler in Portland pronounced it dead with no hope of resurrection, since a tiny part deep in its bowels was worn beyond repair and no replacement parts were available."

"I wasn't willing to give up that easily because Elaine likes everything about the old watch. Less than an hour on the Net turned up a man in Florida with a love of vintage Accutrons and tons of shiny new parts for them, including the part needed to repair Elaine's watch. I sent off a modest check to Florida and by return mail received this tiny little part still in its original packaging. A week at the jeweler's put the watch back in fine operating condition--all involved were delighted."

Cathy Newell was similarly delighted when she recaptured a childhood pleasure. "I had been trying to find some out-of-print books -- a series that I especially enjoyed as a kid, Betsy-Tacy books. Some have been reprinted but lots have not. I found that there is a whole association centered in Minnesota devoted to them."

There are good buys.

"As for the Web," Goldberg reports, "we have spent many an hour blissfully zoned out, but we have also done some good research. We discovered E-savers, last-minute plane fares that allowed my folks to visit their grandchild with round-trip tickets from Philadelphia for only $89. That could be useful for childcare crises. We also studied some educational programs we were interested in. We are currently investigating travel information for a trip we plan to do this winter."

And there's even good news.

"We had friends traveling in Nepal when the big snow storms and tragedies were happening on Mt. Everest," Goldberg reports. "We were able to locate Nepali newspapers online which gave us direct information on what was going on and allowed us to determine our friends were not in the area that was being affected."

Not all information people seek on the Internet is as dramatic as the fate of friends around the world. It can be as mundane as a telephone number.

"I was checking e-mail after work one night and realized that I had keys for the office in my pocket," writes Russell Trapp. "I wasn't going into work the next day, but my associate goes almost right by my house in the morning so he could pick them up. The problem was I didn't have his home phone number, but I knew he lived in the Bridgton area. I pointed my Web browser to: www.switchboard.com, typed in his last name and town in the right spots and, bingo, I retrieved a list of numbers and names that closely matched his. I picked his first name out and had him on the phone in no time. This is an interesting location. If you're searching for anyone named 'xyz' you can search the world, a state or by town. It is amazing how many Trapps there are."

(Switchboard, like most of the databases on the World Wide Web, is free and easy to search. It's also a great way to locate long-lost friends, even when you have no idea where they live.)

All the news fits here

The Internet is increasingly being used as a way of keeping up with the news.

Newell, a self-admitted political junkie, regularly checks out the Web sites of major newspapers, and during the past election campaign the Internet allowed her to follow the latest polling data.

Bennett likes the different type of news and information now available on the Internet. "Our main use of the Net right now is getting the weekly copy of Slate magazine from Microsoft. Kathy and I and some other reader friends of ours think it is a great magazine because of the humor and the slant on weekly news."

More information

The stories above only scratch the surface of the new world opened to Internet users.

Off-line readers who would like to learn more about local Internet access can call Peter Kuzyk (824-2839) or Cathy Newell (824-2780).

They should also watch for introductory Internet courses taught by SAD44 Adult and Community Education, such as "A Quick Tour of the Internet," which will be presented on Thursday, Dec. 5 at 7 p.m. at Crescent Park School. The fee is $5. Call the Adult-Ed office for information and registration.

And watch the pages of The Citizen, which will soon begin publishing occasional columns focused on local Internet activity.

The column will be free form, and open to tips, war stories, favorite Web-site discoveries, technical questions, and whatever else local users might find of interest.

Submissions and suggestions are welcomed.

Five years after he was born at the Family Birthplace, Matthew Phinney helps Mom and Dad welcome his new sister, Ashleigh.

"Our 5-year-old really sold us on the Family Birthplace."

—Diana & Brian Phinney, South Paris

When the Phinneys had Matthew in 1991, the Family Birthplace at Stephens Memorial Hospital made them feel right at home. So when they decided to have Ashleigh, they had the hospital picked out well in advance.

Which was a good thing, since Ashleigh didn't give much notice that she was ready to be born. As soon as the Phinneys arrived at the Family Birthplace, the well-trained staff sprang into action. Mom liked the responsiveness of the nurses. Dad enjoyed the freedom to come and go at any hour. And Matthew was excited to see his new baby sister right away.

So whenever you plan to have a new son or daughter, brother or sister, call one of the physician practices listed below, first.

easy to search. It's also a way to locate long-lost information when you have no idea where to look.

The news fits here. The Internet is increasingly becoming a way of keeping up with the world.

A self-admitted political junkie checks out the Internet. "Our major newspapers, the past election campaign allowed her to test polling data."

While she describes her ITV experience as generally excellent, she said that at times the work can be difficult without the opportunity for one-on-one with the course instructor. Bonney hopes that after earning her degree she will be able to get a job in an area business.

Tammy Billings of Woodstock is another student who said she likely would not have taken classes without the ITV option.

"I probably wouldn't have been able to take time off from work," she said. Billings has worked as a special education aide. She's studying toward a teaching certificate, and will eventually student teach.

In the case of Laurie McPherson of Bethel, ITV is giving her a chance to dabble in some subject areas "without having to make a commitment."

McPherson worked formerly as a computer professional in Boston, and is currently an Outward Bound instructor.

She's considering a career change, and is narrowing her options by taking classes in government, philosophy, natural science, demography and human ecology.

She was even able to do a lab component in the natural science course. The university mailed her a lab kit, which she used to test ozone levels in the area.

Newell said it is possible to get a number of ITV degrees, particularly in the social services and business areas, without having to take any classes on campus.

"There are more advanced courses offered now," she said. "The early emphasis was on the first two years, but now more students can get the third and fourth years as part of the program."

Tuition for three-credit ITV undergraduate courses range from $90 to $120, while the cost for graduate courses is approximately $180. Financial aid is also available.

Moose

wholeheartedly," he said. "I've tried for eight years to get them (IFW) to lower the zone at least to Route 2. I've had about 15 or 20 car/moose accidents reported a year, and not all the accidents get reported."

He estimates there are about 30 accidents, and even that may be a low figure.

IFW statistics show the road kill rate for Oxford County to be .107 per million-vehicle miles. That figure is higher than those for Penobscot and Washington counties (.032 and .074, respectively), but lower than Somerset, Piscataquis and Aroostook (.135, .232, and .273).

Mills also said there are about a dozen illegal moose kills in his area a year. "I think we should let the people who are willing to do it legally have a crack at them," he said.

He said there might be some question whether the zone should extend south of Route 2, because it is a more residential area. If a hunter shot a moose in the boggy area on Route 26 just south of Bethel village, for instance, "it might attract a lot of attention," he said.

Attracting more hunters could be an economic plus for the area, according to Milton, who operates a hunting lodge on Richardson Lake.

"It would mean an extra week of the season for lodging and other spin-off businesses," he said.

In the larger picture, the Sportsmen's Alliance of Maine is promoting legislation to increase the overall number of state permits to 5,000, according to Erskine.

Local reaction

Hunter Brian Tibbets of Bethel favors a southern zone. "There's plenty of moose down this way," he said. "It's overpopulated, I believe."

Vernon Davis of Bethel shot a moose in a northern zone last month. "I think they should open a zone up at least in Grafton," he said.

Davis said many deer hunters come back from the woods in this area reporting that while they didn't see any deer, they did see moose.

One criticism of the hunt over the years has been that it does not qualify as a true sport, because the moose are not shy of hunters -- making the animals an easy target. (The moose is the only game animal you can have your picture taken with before you shoot it, goes the old joke.)

How does Davis respond? He acknowledges that getting a moose is fairly easy. But he also said the bull moose -- most often sought by hunters -- are frequently on the move because hunting season is also rutting season.

"They're not as apt to stand there," he said.

Not everyone is in favor of moose hunting in this area. Audrey Brooke, who lives just south of Grafton Notch on Route 26 in Newry, worries about greater danger to humans with more hunters roaming the woods.

"I can deal with hunters in November, but I don't want to see the time they're around extended," she said.

Brooke said she does not object to the hunt from a management and motorist safety standpoint.

Erskine, however, said the moose hunt has a good safety record, and "there are already people out hunting small game animals at that time, anyway."

Linda Saunders of Bethel organized an effort last year to feed and save a young orphaned moose that wandered the streets of the village for months. But she would favor a local hunt.

"I'd much rather see a hunter kill a moose quickly -- and use the meat -- than have it be mutilated by a car and not be useful to anyone," she said.

Saunders cited a car/moose accident she witnessed on Route 2 in Gilead last year. "The accident didn't kill it," she said. "The agony that animal suffered tore me apart."

Written comment accepted

Written public comment regarding the new zone will be accepted until Nov. 30, and may be addressed to Andrea Erskine, 284 State Street, 41 State House Station, Augusta, ME 04333-0041.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS' THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Local Christian Scientists will hold their traditional Thanksgiving service Thursday, Nov. 28 at 11 a.m., at the church located at 26 Stevens Street in Newry.

This service is dedicated to the sharing of gratitude to God for healings and blessings throughout the year.

The special Thanksgiving lesson-sermon includes readings from the Bible such as this verse from Psalm 55, "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he will sustain thee."

President Clinton's Thanksgiving Proclamation and hymns and testimonies of gratitude from church members will round out the hour.

The public is invited to attend this service. Child care will be provided and no collection will be taken.

Ninety-nine senior citizens held their monthly meeting at Jackson-Silver Post 68 in Locke Mills last week. They enjoyed a delicious chicken pie dinner followed by entertainment by Beverly Melville, who showed slides and talked about her trip to China two years ago.

In last week's news, I made an error in writing that Bea Grover is in Bangor with her daughter. She remains at the Bethel House apartment.

Linwood Machia is now at home after spending three days at the Togus Veterans Hospital. He reports that he is doing okay.

Lindley and Pauline Wieden recently spent a week with their cousin in Irvine, Calif. While there, they enjoyed a cruise to Catalina Island.

Jim and Bea Brown returned on Nov. 11 from a two-week visit with their son and his wife who live in Norfolk, Va. Their son, Captain Leroy A. Brown of the U.S. Navy, graduated from Gould Academy with the class of 1995. He is currently assigned to the staff of the commander Naval Surface Forces, U.S. Atlantic Fleet as the Force Maintenance Officer, where he is responsible for ensuring the material readiness of about 130 surface ships.

During this vacation, the Browns toured the Norfolk Botanical Gardens and spent three days on the outer banks of North Carolina which included a two-night stay at the Cape Hatteras Light Coast Guard Station. Jim, having served in the Coast Guard during WWII, had spent considerable time patrolling the east coast off the cape, but he enjoyed visiting the Coast Guard station in Portsmouth and the coast guard lifesaving museum at Virginia Beach.

Cathy Newell of Locke Mills took Ruth Cummings of the Bethel House to the Craft Fair at West Bethel on Saturday. There were a lot of lovely things there to buy to keep or give as gifts.

Irene Russell and Ruth Cummings of the Bethel House visited Irene's sister-in-law, Margaret Foster, at Ledgewood Nursing Home on Sunday afternoon.

Cathy Newell and Ruth Cummings visited with Amy and Roger Hanscom at the Rumford Community Home on Monday. Cathy treated Ruth to lunch at Teena's, a great place to eat.

Roger Hanscom is doing much better since his recent operation. Amy was doing quite well herself.

Sylvia Clark and Gloria Ring of Bryant Pond visited with Ruth Cummings at the Bethel House on Wednesday.

Vada Glover of Rumford and Ruth Cummings were in Gorham shopping on Tuesday and enjoyed lunch at Wilfred's. Ruth and Vada also played cribbage; they have thus far played 253 games and Vada is now one game ahead. Ruth is gaining some on her in the past few months.

Robert Cole visited his sister, Ida Lurvey, at Ledgewood Nursing Home on Wednesday.

Friends of Polly Myers will be sorry to learn that she has been hospitalized in Brunswick. She would love to hear from you. Correspondence may be addressed to her at 41 Thompson Street, Brunswick, ME 04011.

Florence Hastings was in Bar Harbor on Nov. 9 and 10 with Ann and Dave Morton of Hanover.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spilman of Enfield, Conn., visited Florence Hastings recently.

Leland Coolidge would like neighbors to drop in and visit, as he is more or less house-bound now.

Ruby Coolidge got a seven-point buck on Nov. 9.

Ruby Coolidge will be teaching line dancing on Nov. 25 at Jackson-Silver Post in Locke Mills from 7 to 8 p.m.

Andre, Flossie and Jerry Bernier went to the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine on Nov. 16 for their open house.

Lucy Nordahl was in Boston on Nov. 9 and 10 to attend the wedding of a family friend's daughter.

Rudi Honkala was in Durham, N.H., on Nov. 15, to attend a UNH/UMO hockey game. UNH won the game.

Judy Smith of Bucksport visited Arlene Harrington on Nov. 9 and 10.

Peggy Coolidge and Ruth Bethel went with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Twitchell to Bethel Senior Citizens Club meeting and dinner, on Nov. 13, at the Jackson-Silver Legion Hall in Locke Mills.

The Story Hour held at the Public Library now invites preschool children to join the Thursday afternoon get-togethers. All children preschool through third grade are welcome to join the book readings held after school at 2:30 p.m. most Thursdays. Please contact Anne Marie Mahar or Kimber Shining Star for more information.

Andover students in the class of 2000 are sponsoring a RADA Cutlery Open House Sale on Saturday, Nov. 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the C.E.B. Complimentary refreshments will be served. The kitchen utensils and knife products are great gift ideas. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the Andover Education Fund. Contact Cindy Simmons at 392-4122 for more information.

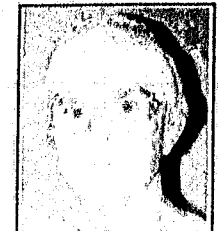

Holiday wreaths are available to order from the class of 1998. The beautiful wreaths are $10 each and will be delivered around the Thanksgiving holiday. Please call one of the following as soon as possible to place an order: Linda Percival (392-4681), Elissa Thibodeau (392-1181), Monica Smith (392-1332), Darcy Morse (392-3822), Ken Jodrey (392-2852), Karen Thurston (392-2866), or Walter Drakus (392-1731).

Mary Bailey was the surprise guest at a party at her home last weekend. The pizza party she was hosting for her Sunday School class turned into a surprise party to celebrate her Nov. 14 birthday.

Among those attending were Brianne Drakus, Ann Marie Kneeland, Kim Skillin, David Gallant, Amanda Davis, Jenna Poor, Erika Davis, Marge Stinson, Jane Reed and the cake bakers and decorators -- Melissa Bailey and Jenny Morin.

The residence of the David Chaisson family was destroyed by fire last Friday afternoon. Only the dog was home at the time of the fire; he was rescued unharmed from the cellar.

Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met on Monday, Nov. 11, for a regular meeting where they nominated officers and had initiation. Sally Sawyer filled in as Senior Vice President and Kathleen McAllister was Junior Vice President. There were 19 members present. Nine members attended the inspection in South Paris with Norway and East Stoneham Tents. It was a nice meeting and supper, with Emogene Staples being honored for 75 years of membership and for her 98th birthday. Eight members attended the Veterans Day program at Locke Mills. Marybeth Hoover and Tiffany Jordan were initiated as new members. Next meeting will be Dec. 9, with a tasting party and exchange of gifts. A brief history of Veterans Day was read by Helvi Cary. Gifts were brought for Togus and a card was signed for Verna Swan's 90th birthday.

Every Thursday from 6 to 7:15 p.m. the Good News Club meets at the Baptist Church and all school-age children are invited. Looking ahead to coming events at the Baptist Church: Nov. 20, CEB World Day of Prayer; Nov. 21, Good News Club Thanksgiving party; Nov. 22, Word of Life Super Bowl; Nov. 24, Special speakers Mr. and Mrs. Allan Brough with Hospital Chaplain Service; Dec. 8, Christmas Program. The Bryant Pond Hour is on channel IV TV on Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. and Thursdays at 7 p.m.

Joseph and Maggie Hoyt visited their dad, James Hoyt and their grandparents Ken and Alice Hoyt. Other visitors at the Hoyt's were Marybeth Hoover and Shawn Crockett.

The Woodstock Historical Society gathers artifacts relating to our area's past and exhibits them so everyone can learn about Woodstock. Curator Larry Billings has donated a tray with the Mystic Seaport emblem on it. He also donated an oil painting of a lake, and gave some little booklets describing the '40s through '70s in America. The society is one of the most active around, and it has an exceptionally fine museum. Mary Jane Painchaud recently donated an item, thanks.

At the November meeting of the society, members voted to get a fire-proof file cabinet to honor the late Ruby Emery. A film on the Awesome Auto Tour was shown and President Helvi Cary and Leon Conant displayed their trophies. The meeting on December 14 will be a Christmas party with exchange of gifts and cards. The evening will begin with a potluck supper at 6 p.m.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Molly Nelson stayed with her grandparents Friday night. Her parents went to Montreal over the weekend.

Cub Scouts Pack 155 of Lovell were through town last Saturday, leaving a bag on people's doorknobs for the Scouting for Food program. They came back on Nov. 16 to collect them for distribution to the food pantry for the needy.

At the public hunters' supper last Thursday, the name of Mary Alice Williams of Fort Worth, Texas, was drawn as winner of the beautiful afghan which was made and donated to the church by Fran Adams.

The Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club met at the Stoneham meeting room with Eben Harmon presiding. There were 19 members present. Discussion was made about the Snowmobile Booster Club supper on Nov. 23. Ticket holders can bring a guest for $5 and the dinner will start at 6 p.m.

The potluck dinner/Christmas party is on Dec. 10. Members should bring a small gift for the same sex, in order to have a gift exchange. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Talk was made about the trails to be worked on and members hope for a good, snowy winter.

On Tuesday, Nov. 12, the Oxford County Republicans met at the North Waterford Congregational Church. The meeting was opened by Oxford County Chairman Stan Howe. Forty-two people attended. Dan Demeritt was the speaker representing the office of Susan Collins and the Republican party in general. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and accepted. Several candidates spoke to members. Appreciation was given for the delicious dinner which was served. The meeting closed at 8:30 p.m.

Oxford County United Parish will meet on Thursday, Nov. 21 at 7:15 p.m., at the North Waterford Church Vestry.

We welcome Cheryl Adams who is our new neighbor, living in the Lawrence Dadmun house for the winter.

This past weekend, Representative Paul Taylor and wife Charlotte and

"Mac" of New Hampshire were at the Gladys Kilgore house doing work. While there, they called on relatives and friends in the area.

Albert and Eleanor Nelson called on Grace Nelson on Wednesday at the Bridgton Health Care Center. We found her to be getting along quite nicely.

Gregg Inman, Vance Bacon, Joe Perham, Vernon Inman and Walter Inman were at Albany hunting camp last week. None of the above got a deer.

I spent the week with Cynthia Lamb on North Pond while the men-folk were hunting.

Bill and Ginny Aridas came to "Blueberry Hill" last Thursday. Ginny and I took Bill to the airport Sunday afternoon.

The 90th Annual Chicken Pie Supper will be on Thursday, Nov. 28, at Goodwill Hall of the Universalist Church. The first setting will be at 5:30 p.m. and tickets will go on sale at 4:30 p.m. -- $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. The kitchen workers will be: Maria Clements, Beverly Stevens, Joyce Lamb, Nick Clements and Vernon Inman. Dixie Inman is in charge of waitresses. The clean-up committee is Bob and Arlen Clifford, Milton and Eleanor Inman, Vance Bacon and Ginny Aridas. There will be crafts on sale in the Ladies' Parlor.

On Sunday, Nov. 24 at 9 a.m., there will be a rededication service along with the regular service. The original dedication day was June 27, 1906. It is hoped that some of the former ministers will be present. There will be special music and refreshments will be served after the service.

Forward Fellowship members will meet on Monday, Nov. 25, for a potluck supper at Goodwill Hall at 6 p.m.

Dale Penney of New Germany, Nova Scotia, visited us here on Thursday.

Friends of Avis Stelthorn have heard that she is improving in Zephyrhills, Fla.

Newton Lamb is now a resident at the Maine Veteran's Home in South Paris, and he enjoys his "new home" very much.

Songo Pond

Congratulations to Danny and Paula Wheeler on the premature arrival of their twin baby boys at Maine Medical Center last week. The little guys, named Travis and Zachary, hope to be able to come home for Christmas.

Everything covered with heavy, white frost each morning is giving us fair warning. Thankfully, we didn't get what the city of Cleveland did. I remember well as a child growing up in the '20s of always having skating on the frog pond at Thanksgiving time and never a worry about having a White Christmas. And now they ask what is a frog pond?

Mrs. Sylvia Swan and family were callers here over the weekend. Sheri stayed overnight with me on Saturday.

Mrs. Bunny Prawick of St. Louis brought her father, Mike Cummings of Norway Convalescent Center, up to call on Bill and Phyllis Bancroft Monday afternoon.

Spend not your money before it be got; speak not your mind before you have thought.

by Amy Geiling

Hi everyone! In last week's column I wrote that the river in Elizabethtown, N.Y. was the Battenkill. I meant to write Bouquet River. Oops!

Nice story, Alison, on the Golden Girls' bowling team from Newry. I laughed out loud reading about the anonymous bowler's dentures rolling down the lane.

My father, Ralph, was a fan of bowling (big balls) and taught me very young. I managed to get on the "Bowling for Dollars" T.V. show at age 14, got a nice collection of bowling trophies with my last bowling average of 165. He used to yell "salute" when I'd release the ball to insure a good follow-through.

I have to be thankful this Thanksgiving time that I had a father who spent quality time with me and my siblings. He passed away five years ago, but I'll always remember to "salute" on release of the bowling ball.

So ladies -- "Salute" and keep those balls rollin'.

The lake is freezing over. Jim

Kenney braved the ice with a few steps out near the shore. He measured about two inches. Not quite enough yet to run his 1975 Evenrude sled with bogie wheels.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

Over the years I have put together many scrap-books, some are of special events and people, but the one I looked over today contained poems, special to me, quotations and just things of interest. I first read some of the tongue twisters I collected. I'm sharing some of those and other things.

"Sister Susie's sewing shirts for soldiers."

"She sells seashells by the seashore."

"The sun shines on shop signs."

"Slippery sleds slide smoothly down the sluice way."

"A snifter of snuff is enough snuff for a sniffer for the snuff sniffer."

Those brought memories of some children at school.

An old proverb I found, "You can't keep trouble from coming, but you needn't give it a chair to sit on."

Turning a few pages, I found a poem I had written many years ago entitled, "My Dad." That really took me back through years.

Next I learned that "Silence is a good substitute for brains" and Shakespeare says "A light heart lives longer."

Such a variety I have in this notebook that it would take a whole day to read it all. I see now a little called "A Quick Supper" and it is time for one so I'll stop with "No time lost."

A lady visitor at one of the busy Kaiser shipyards on the Pacific coast stooped over to tie a knot in her shoe. The next thing she knew, a bottle of champagne was broken across her stern and she was launched.

It is time for the first ranking period at school. I have heard several children talking about it.

My robins were with me again one day this week.

Althea Hathaway and Betty Lord from Bryant Pond came to see me this week. We did some reminiscing, for both were my pupils in school days.

Ann and I went to church on Sunday then joined David, Sally, Mary, Leona and Fay for a delicious dinner and a nice afternoon. Eleanor Inman stayed with her sister in South Paris last week.

North Newry

by Gil Seecley

Services were held at the Newry Community Church on Nov. 10 at 9 a.m. with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "Lost and Found" from Psalm 86:13, "For great is thy mercy toward me and thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest hell." Gil Seecley's special was, "The Comforter, The Consoler," a tribute to Pastor Hanscom. How about a Bible quiz? Who was the first "DRUNK" -- Genesis 9:21.

The Newry Mothers Club met Monday night at the Town Building with six members present. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Gil Seecley in memory of Rena Powers. Secretary-Treasurer-Sunshine Lady Olive Anderson read the notes of the last meeting, brought the finances up to date, reported on sending cards to the shut-ins. She also brought the Mystery Prize which was won by Nancy Wight. Birthday greetings to Mary Morin and Peggy Wight. The next meeting will be Dec. 9 with a potluck supper and exchange of gifts. Refreshments were enjoyed after the meeting.

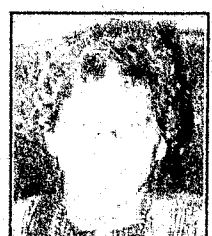

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seecley and Olive Anderson of the Newry Bowling Gang were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week. On the overall scores Betsy was high on the singles with one string of 125; she also was high on the triples with a score of 305. She had three strikes and three spares. Karlene had two spares and Gil had three spares.

Thanks, Alison, for the great "write-up." Remember the old saying, "You can't always believe everything you read and only half of what you see." But where are the rest of those pictures, Alison?

The Newry Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary met Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Town Building with Brenda Wight presiding. But before the opening of the meeting, Capt. Randy Harrington of the Newry Fire Department gave the members a tour of the new addition to the station next to the Town Building. The meeting was opened, and Secretary Karen Cormier displayed the 10-year celebration flag to be purchased -- there will be another one for the Sunday River station, also. Treasurer Nancy Wight reported on the finances. It was voted to sell some logo hats at the Newry Corner Store for $3.50 each. Also voted on was the sending of cards to the ill or home-bound firemen. There was a discussion on having a potluck supper sometime later. No meeting is scheduled for December unless necessary. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 at 7 p.m. at the Town Building.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

Jaymi and Randi Mack spent the night with their great-grandparents, Buster and Claribel Poland. They were anxious to spend more time in the new home of Claribel and Buster.

Buster and Claribel Poland wish to give much thanks for the gift certificate from the Willing Workers. It was much appreciated.

Beverly Stevens and I attended a retirement party Sunday in Hollis for a former co-worker, Amos Gay. There were about 150 in attendance. Amos was given a "roast" by many of the ones associated with him during his years with USDA.

Kellie Record and Jessie Hart attended the field hockey playoffs in Lewiston on Monday. They had taken Sarah Hart back to SMTC and stayed on their way home. Staci Litchfield sat with them for most of the game. Jessie hadn't seen her for quite a while and was glad to do some visiting.

Telstar Middle School honored its fall sports athletes recently. Those from this area are: Sheri Curley, Crystal Cash, Amanda Miclon, Caitlin Gallagher, and Bobby Bean. I think it's great for students to participate in sports if possible. One of our local girls, Emily Phillips, played in the field hockey playoffs Monday. I know they lost but did put up a good fight and had a great year. Congratulations everyone!

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that the society is grateful for columnists Alice Hoyt, Andrea Wing, and Lolalee Dillingham for including news of the society in the papers. Children from the Seventh Day Adventist School plan to visit the museum soon. Curator Billings donated a souvenir tray to the society.

Tommy Poland and Joan Poland visited with Claribel and Buster Poland at their new home last week. Tommy and Joan had gone out to breakfast and stopped by on their way home.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that appetizers are the little things you eat until you've lost your appetite."

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates Howdy friends. This is Veteran's Day and what a beautiful morning it is. It was rather on the cool side to start with, but we must expect it even though I would rather have it stay on the warm side.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizen group met at Franklin Grange Hall on Thursday, and the dinner was put on by the Woodstock High School Alumni Association.

Loretta Merrill of West Bethel was here for a while Friday morning. She trimmed her mother's hair and did it up in rollers. She also tilted us in on what she and her friend Barbara Stevens had been doing for excitement.

Hope Lovejoy went to Washington D.C. on Thursday and returned home on Monday.

Elihus McKen is confined in a Portland hospital for health problems.

Mary Lovejoy was in Hartford Saturday morning to attend a craft sale.

Saturday evening, the Lovejoy family attended the public supper put on by Alder River Grange at their hall in East Bethel. It was reported there was a very good attendance.

Mary Lovejoy and the school would like to thank people for saving their Campbell Soup labels.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest member, Telstar Video Stores, Karen and Jen Wight owners.

The chamber Merchant Committee has been meeting at least once a week for the past two months to develop and confirm events and a marketing plan for a pre-holiday Shop Local Campaign for the period Nov. 29 through Dec. 20. A flyer will be inserted into The Bethel Citizen on Nov. 27 highlighting all these local events and the businesses who have been kind enough to support it. Many businesses will be staying open until 9 p.m. on Friday evenings for these four weeks. "Support Your Town ... Don't Shop Around!"

All members and friends of the chamber are invited to the upcoming Chamber Holiday Social on Sunday, Dec. 15, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Sudbury Inn. Owners Cherie and David Thurston have been kind enough to host this event for six years. They, along with innkeeper John Martin, look forward to seeing all of you there -- so put the date on your calendar.

The chamber Board of Directors will meet Wednesday in a retreat to plan for the 1997 chamber program. We will use the feedback from the recent membership survey to develop this plan, so we thank all those who were able to fill it out and send it back to us.

Many thanks to Boston Ski Show volunteer staff members: Bill Riley, Susan Isham, Henrietta Tranum, John Constantino, and Don Coverdale.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met on Nov. 13 at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills with a record number of 99 present. Helen Saunders, president, conducted the business meeting.

Dates to remember are: Nov. 24, National Honor Society Dinner at Telstar at noon; Dec. 11, Bethel Inn Christmas Party, social hour at 5:30 p.m., dinner at 6 p.m., gift exchange under $5; Dec. 17, Senior Citizen Dinner Party by the Rotary at the Legion Hall in Bethel at 11:45 a.m.

New officers for the upcoming year are: president, Helen Saunders; first vice president, Harold Powell; second vice president, Louise Twitchell; secretary, Barbara H. Brown; Asst. secretary, Arlene Lowell; Sunshine Committee, Muriel Faudt; Finance Committee, Earlon Paine; membership, Polly Davis; program and trips, Jane Hosterman; fundraising, Joanne and Rudy Royer.

The door prize was won by Florence Briggs, and a handcrafted baby sleigh, donated by Bobby Yates, was raffled for $72 and won by Joan Howe. A beautiful holiday cake was made and donated by Lois Kilroy.

November birthdays are: Ernest Angevine, Oscar Annis, Lawrence Bailey, Kathleen Bean, Frances Bennett, Norris Brown, Richard Carter, Annie Crockett, Robert Davis, Grace Douglass, Barbara Honkala, Rebecca Kendall, Doris Parent, Eleanor Pugliese, Betty Robertson, Ruby Rolfe, Eva Schools, Henrietta Taffi, Ethel Ward, Ruth Wiles.

Friends to be remembered with cards, calls and prayers are: Celia Gorman, Rose Taylor, Camilla Everett, Linwood Machia, Mary Keniston.

Following a very special holiday dinner of chicken pie and everything that goes with it, Beverly Melville shared a trip to China with us. Slides and experiences of the Great Wall, food, scenery, customs and a very different way of life were new and indeed a treat.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

The Greenwood Historical Society met on Wednesday, Nov. 6, for the regular meeting with 21 present. The new president, Ivan Morcy, presided.

Joyce Hathaway reported that the new bookcase had arrived, and after it has been assembled it will be brought to the building.

The new door was bought and brought to the building by Robert Keniston. Blaine Mills has painted it and put it on.

A presentation of Arthur Stowell's Patent for a Plinker Target, which was found in Ellery Park's office in Bethel, was given to the society by Robert Keniston. The corresponding secretary was asked to write a note of thanks to Nancy Stowell for the information.

The secretary was also asked to send a sympathy card to the family of Calvin Coolidge in Ben Salem, Penn. He had just joined the society while he was visiting his family in Maine this summer.

Plans were made at this meeting for a potluck supper which will precede the next meeting. Those attending are asked to bring food and a gift that is wrapped and unmarked for the entertainment following the meeting.

Margaret Mills furnished the refreshments for the meeting, and Blaine Mills showed a video of a country dance in Scotland.

WINTER BIRD FEEDING

The North Country Chapter of the Audubon Society of New Hampshire will present a winter bird feeding program at the New Hampshire Technical College in Berlin, on Friday, Nov. 22, at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to this free program, where ideas on attracting, feeding and observing birds will be discussed. There will also be a display of bird food and feeders from Martin's Agway in Lancaster.

For more information please call (603) 752-1924 or (603) 449-1376.

magical season they had. They posted a 13-2 record and were the first Gould field hockey team in at least three decades to reach the Prep School Tournament finals. And with only four seniors on the team--Mason, Graham, Anna Marancik, and captain Shelley MacQuinn, --Gould will most likely prove to be a very tough opponent next season.

Ski train

River is supporting inter-city passenger rail service, providing social and recreational opportunities for citizens of Maine. We anticipate increased ridership by offering new services for cross-country skiers, snowmobilers and non-skiers who want to enjoy the shopping and dining in the historic Bethel area.

The Sunday River Express (as the new service will be known) seats 350 passengers and features three classes, two dining cars and four passenger coaches. Riders can take advantage of televisions with VCRs, video games, first-class dining and fast-food service, including an expanded menu featuring full breakfast and dinner entrees.

"We're very excited to be partnering with Sunday River to continue offering skiers and winter enthusiasts a relaxing way to travel," said Rodrigue. "We bring 135 years of railroading experience. We're dedicated to operate the train with the same level of quality and service that Sunday River provides its guests. This is the first step for Bethel Mountain Line to provide passenger rail service throughout the state. We want to be the leaders in Maine passenger rail service."

The Sunday River Express is tentatively scheduled to depart the Portland station at Chapman Industrial Park on Presumpscott Street at 6:15 a.m. and arrive at Bethel Station at approximately 8:50 a.m. From there, a new fleet of passenger buses (the old fleet has also been sold) will carry skiers and snowboarders the remaining six miles to Sunday River.

One of only two ski trains in the East, the Sunday River Express follows the route of the historic Grand Trunk Railroad.

Rodrigue said he is also considering keeping some of the cars in Bethel during the summer, for tourist runs in the White Mountains.

ANNUAL ADVENT FAIR

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold its annual Advent Fair and Morning Coffee on Saturday, Dec. 7, from 8 to 11 a.m.

The church is located on Route 117N, Buckfield Road, South Paris. There will be something for everyone: baked goods, attic treasures, crafts, cookie walk and more. Finnish Nisu will be served with the morning coffee.

FRIENDS OF TMS

Friends of Telstar Middle School held its monthly meeting in October.

The group voted to purchase books for the Telstar Library and a video camera for school use.

A recent Fall Festival was sponsored by the Friends group. Activities for the night were open gym, obstacle course, board games, dancing, face painting and a pumpkin decorating contest. The contest winners were Thomas Parsons, funniest pumpkin; Lisa Pivin, weirdest pumpkin; Marie Ward, scariest pumpkin; and Bion Swan and Katie Wight, coolest pumpkin. Prizes were free video rentals. Local businesses that supported the event were Preb's Pharmacy and Viewer's Choice.

November's meeting is on Wednesday, Nov. 20, starting at 6:30 p.m. to brainstorm fundraising events. The regular meeting will be from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Guest speakers for the evening are sport coaches, Charlie Raymond, soccer; Tim Kavanagh, alpine skiing; and Carroll Higgins, athletic director.

KOCH, BUKER ALL-STARS

Telstar High School seniors Tony Buker and Cory Koch have been named to the Western Maine Class C All-Star Soccer team.

SERVING THE COMMUNITY - AND THE WILDLIFE—High school students from NOVA's forestry/wood harvesting program cleared brush in the Hastings Campground in Gilead recently, as their annual community service project. Clearings are maintained throughout the White Mountain National Forest to provide habitat for various species of wildlife, such as songbirds. Two instructors and a dozen students from Telstar, Mountain Valley, and Dirigo high schools worked on the day-long project. Shown here is student Peter Bedard. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Bethel Selectmen's Meetings

On weeks in which the Bethel selectmen meet (usually the weeks of the first and third Mondays in the month) the meetings will be televised on Channel IV. The broadcasts will normally be at 7 p.m. on Friday, but schedule modifications will occasionally be necessary, so please check the on-air calendar for up-to-date information.

Broadcast of the selectmen's meeting is a cooperative effort of Channel IV and The Bethel Citizen.

Obituaries

HORACE L. COBB

Horace L. Cobb, 91, of East Sumner died Nov. 14, 1996, at Victorian Villa Nursing Home, following a lengthy illness.

He was born in Sumner on June 13, 1905, the son of James B. and Estella (Heald) Cobb. He received his education in the Sumner grade school and Buckfield High School, where he graduated valedictorian of his class in 1922.

He was a teacher in the Sumner grade school for one year. He then entered Wentworth Institute in Boston, Mass., graduating in 1925, class of electrical wiring. He taught electrical wiring in the Wentworth Evening School and worked as an electrical contractor in Arlington, Mass. and in Sumner after Central Maine Power Co. ran their lines through the town.

He returned to East Sumner in 1933 and was Sumner town clerk, treasurer and excise tax collector from 1934 to 1942. Mr. Cobb also served as treasurer of the Sumner Ministerial Fund for over 50 years.

During the depression years, he kept a flock of poultry, producing hatching eggs which he shipped to hatcheries in Connecticut and Pennsylvania. He also acted as the agent for the American Railway Express for as long as the MCRR trains ran through Sumner.

He was a member of the Buckfield Masonic Lodge, East Sumner Congregational Church and Portland Local #567-IBEW. Until his retirement in 1967, he worked for Kerr Electric Co., Parker Electric Co. of Auburn, E.S. Bouslas of Portland and others, as a foreman of electrical construction on buildings from Machias to Naples, Fla.

On Dec. 3, 1927 he married Lola A. Merrill of Willimantic and enjoyed 63 years of marriage until her death in September 1990. They both enjoyed camping and fishing, especially at their camp on Kennebago Lake. They spent their winter months in Bonita Springs, Fla. and Apache Jct., Ariz.
